

Lynn Taylor

From: Grew up in Minneapolis, MN. Moved to Palo Alto, CA for high school and college; 6 years in Michigan; 27 years in CO, last 21 in Fort Collins.

Schooling: BS (Genetics) from UC Berkeley, MS (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) from Colorado State University

Day job: Senior research associate at CSU, Biochemistry and Molecular Biology

Sport start: watching Minnesota State Track Championships at the fairgrounds (way before velodrome in Blaine was built).

On-the-bike experience: San Jose Bicycle Club in high school/college; Grand Rapids Rapid Wheelmen (Michigan); total of 13 years racing experience. USAC Central Region BAR Champion (1982); Michigan State Women's Road Champ (1983).

Years officiating: 26, last 6 including USAC Road/Track National Championships, NRC races, and UCI stage races. Have found my niche as a judge. USAC 2011 Mountain Region Official of the Year.

Other ACA interactions: 2nd term Board member, Technical Committee member

Most memorable officiating experiences: volunteering in 1985 at the Steamboat Springs stage race and doing results completely by hand, including using a typewriter; Casper Classic stage races in mid 80's; Kamas, Utah's delight at having 50 riders total (!) start one of the first Evanston Stage Races; 2007 Tour of Missouri, 2009 Amgen Tour of California, 2012 UCI Master Cyclocross World Championships.