Biography:

A Colorado native, Susan has spent her entire life enjoying the outdoors and appreciating the beauty of Mother Nature. Starting her money making career at the early age of 12 by mowing lawns; Susan quickly began to understand the value of a dollar and the hard work required to earn it. In 6th grade, she spent most of the summer painting her family's ranch style home to earn a buck, okay maybe it was a few hundred. Susan has always been a thinker and improviser from early on. She would spend her time outdoors at the family cabin figuring out how to "make" furniture out of logs, twigs and rocks. It was like putting together a puzzle, which is no wonder why she chose to be an accountant. Accounting is taking what appear to be meaningless numbers, and then arranging them in way that others can easily understand, and then use as financial tools. While attending college Susan also held a job and juggled her time between school, work and life. As a professional, she has worked in a variety of businesses, small to large, public and private. This has given her great exposure to what works well and what doesn't work well. One of the biggest moments in her career was the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002. This law required a company-wide effort led by Susan and her department to become audit compliant. At Spectralink / Polycom in 2007, she was chosen by her managers and peers to be a part of a 12 month Leadership Development Program. That team was comprised of 15 individuals from the entire company. Then again in 2009/2010 at Leopard, she was given the opportunity to participate in the Emerging Leaders Development Program.

On the bike, she has traveled abroad, going to the Tour de France, Vuelta a Espana and Giro d'Italia to watch the race and ride the famous climbs like Alpe'd'Huez, Sierra de la Pandera and yes the famous and not sure if she will ever do again Monte Zoncolan. An ex-marathoner, Susan enjoys most of her time road cycling, mountain biking, cyclocross biking, practicing yoga, trail running, hiking 14ers, tennis, she could go on but think you get it. She secretly aspires to be a ballroom dancer, but more realistically a bicycle messenger.

As for what Susan brings to the ACA, she has strong business acumen with the ability to think ahead. With her fresh point of view and can-do attitude she is a win-win situation for any type of organization. Finally, she is out there racing year-round; so she is in the mix of things in the racing community.
