Three days of action-packed bike racing in a points-based omnium format, with the ability to pick and choose to race any or all days should you not want to be a part of the omnium. The 2021 Omnium edition brings to Colorado one exciting venue, 3 courses, and a format attractive to all type racers. Friday's race will kick things off with a TT race against the clock as riders tackle the race of truth along the rollers of Hanover Rd. On Saturday riders have the challenging Hanover Circuit Race with some dirt sections to keep it sporty. Then it all comes down to the Hanover Road Race on Sunday with a 40 Mile loop on the rollers east of Fountain.

How does this omnium format work? All USAC Omnium Race Rules apply! If you want to be a part of the points-based omnium you just sign up using the registration link and sign up for the event or events you would like to do. You do not have to finish all three days to be scored in the final omnium overall race results.

I only want to race the time-trial, or road race, or circuit race, or two out of the three days, how does that work? Easy! For the time-trial race you must pre-register. For the road race and crit you can either pre-register just for those events or take advantage of race day registration. Your score for each race will be tallied and put into the omnium overall. You'll also be scored against your competitors for that day event with single event prizes.

I'm racing the omnium (all three days), but 10 guys who just signed up for the single day beat me. How will this affect my omnium race results? That depends on placing. It is quite possible that a person that finishes one or two races high in the classification, could acquire more points if you finished low in the classification each day you raced.
