Colorado Time Trial Championships

~ John Stenner Memorial ~

June 12th, 2022

USAC Permit 2022-5618
CR: Tim Madden

John Stenner was a Colorado native who began cycling when he attended the University of Colorado in Boulder, where he earned a degree in aerospace engineering in 1989. Cycling quickly became his passion, and John helped organize the very first national collegiate road cycling championships at Cal Poly in San Luis Obispo in 1988, which he won. John also helped the CU men to win the Team Time Trial at the inaugural collegiate event

John's talent led him to become a member of the U.S. Cycling Team in 1989. He was a member of the 1989 U.S. Time Trial squad that took 4th place at the world championships in Chambéry, France. John earned 3rd place in the final time trial of the 1989 Tour de Trump. Other highlights of his career include: Colorado state TT champion in 1988 and 1992; Colorado state road champion in 1992; 2nd, 6th, and 4th place in the U.S. TT championships in 1988, 1989 and 1991, respectively.

At the U.S. team time trial championships, he placed 2nd in 1989, 2nd in 1990 with Subaru-Montgomery teammates Nate Reiss, Jim Copeland, and Lance Armstrong, and 3rd in 1992. John competed internationally at the European Community Tour, the PostGiro and Vaner Tour in Sweden, and the Tour de Poitou-Charentes in France, as well as other tours in Germany, France, and Canada, netting some top 6 finishes in several time trial events. From 1988 through 1992, John rode with various amateur teams including Crest, Shaklee, Granny's Muffins, Subaru-Montgomery, and Colorado Road Club.

In 1991, John injured his knee and lost his spot on the U.S. team. Undeterred by his injury and his lack of sponsorship, he set a goal to train, recuperate, and achieve a place on the 1992 Olympic TTT team. John turned in an inspired performance at the 1992 individual time trial championships, beating the competition by nearly a minute and earning the title of national TT champion. John was selected to become an alternate for the Olympics squad, and he received the call to fly to Barcelona when one of the team members broke his leg. The U.S. team of George Hincapie, Scott Mercier, Nate Sheafor, and Stenner was plagued with mechanical problems, but John provided strong pulling power in the effort, and was happy that he had achieved his goal of making it to the Olympics.

John was tragically killed in an auto collision while on a training ride on May 16, 1994. His death hit hard in the cycling community, and he is widely remembered as a gentle, fun-loving man who treated everyone with kindness. He had a rare talent in cycling that was strengthened by determination and untainted by ego.
